They were out on a pleasure trip with Peter Thornburg, a Swedish sailor. The latter gave the tiller to Mrs. Martin, while he adjusted the sails. She was inexperienced, threw the boat too close to the wind and it turned over. All managed to hold on to the overturned boat, which drifted with the ebb tide past the British ship Mary Down. Gov. McKinley Anticipates No Trouble with Coxey and His Army. COLUMBUS, O., March 00.-Whether Coxey and his army of peace, if one is gathered, can be legally suppressed as a public menace before they start from Massillon on the journey to Washington next Sunday is a question on which Gov. McKinley was induced to talk, though with evident reluctance. However, when seen, Gov. McKinley asked a number of questions about the army scheme. He wanted to know if Gov. Pattison had been appealed to or would take any cognizance of the case. The governor was decidedly loath to talk about the affair. He said:

"I have heard no fears expressed by anybody. Really I do not believe there is the least cause for alarm. Surely you do not think that a large number of men will gather and march to Washington? The country would not support them. Hesides I can't see what they would nocomplish in Washington if they got there. The whole thing is too visionary. If an emergency arose I would meet it promptly."

Gov. McKinley intends to go to Minneapolis this week, and will be out of the state when the army begins its march next Sunday. Under the Ohio laws the absence of the governor would not make much difference, for the mayor of Massillon or the sheriff of Stark county could order out the Eighth regiment if the soldiers were needed. Local militia in Ohio can be called out without a request to the governor. It may be added that the members of the regiment expect to have some work. In the Buckeye state the militia is frequently called out on slighter provocation than in Pennsylvania. Massillon, O., March 19.-Commander Coxey and Lient. Browne were in town Saturday. They had spoken the night before at Trotter's Hill, a mining camp which is now sorely racked by a strike. Five hundred miners were at the meeting. With scarcely an exception the men indorsed the commonweal march to Washington and many of them assured the speakers that they would accompany the expedition.

There is grave apprehension that the army will meet with trouble in Pennsylvania. The column will move through one of the most depressed industrial districts in the state, and it is firmly believed that the army will be joined by thousands of idle men before it reaches Pittsburgh. The mayor of Beaver Falls, a town through which the army is scheduled to pass, has publicly declared that he will stop the column the instant it swings into his territory. He argues that the army will be nothing more nor less than a band of vagabonds, without discipline or conscience. To bring such an army into Beaver Falls, he says, would be the crowning misfortune of a town which has been paralyzed for a year or more by industrial conflicts. On the other hand the village of Economy, a rich communistic community, through which the army is to pass after leaving Beaver Falls, has offered to feed and shelter the commonwealers for a day. The offer comes from one of the wealthiest men of the town and is indersed by a score of citizens. It is the belief of the men who look upon the pilgrimage in a conservative way that the army will be so unwieldy after it enters Pennsylvania that it will slip away from the control of Commander Coxey and become a noisy, pillaging mob, preying upon the hencoops and smokehouses of farmers and inviting and eventually receiving a stern reception from the troops of the state. Numerous applications have been received from enthusiastic women who wish to join the common weal. Gen. Coxey has decided that his army must not entangle itself with women. "If if were an ordinary military campaign," he says, "we might use our women sympathizers as nurses, but we expect no bloodshed, and under such circumstances a nurse would be an expensive luxury." Lowell L. Marvin, of Falmouth, Ky., proposes to join the army with 200 men, and C. O'Brien, of Lagro, Ind., promises to be present with 600 of the unemployed. Saturday several letters reached Coxey and Browne from various parts of Pennyslvania saying that Gov. Pattison has ordered Sheriff John Moon, of Green county, to meet the army on the state line and read the riot act. The general at once wired the governor and received the following reply, which he regards as highly noncommittal: "The sheriff of Green county knows his duty and I have no doubt will fully perform every requirement of the law." Cheap Rate for Veteraus.
